- Not just in manufacturing, but also design, selling and research
- however this has many disadvantages…*

Disdvantages of fast fashion

- For this next section, YOU will be researching in pairs for specific examples for each disadvantage.
- Specific examples are things such as
  - Naming the company or product involved
  - Naming the country or countries this takes place in
  - Naming whether it is an economic/sociocultural or environmental disadvantage
  - Having a statistic (cost, water usage, deaths in factories, amount of plastic etc)
- Write answers in the Example = section under each heading.

How to answer a short answer question

- Open up your books, and write down everything in red text in the following slides
- When answering short answers, you need to do 3 things:
  1. Make a statement
  2. Write in full sentences, using geospeak from the content
     - Is this sociocultural, environmental or economic?
     - Advantage/positive or disadvantage/negative?
     - Make sure to answer the key term; discuss, describe, explain etc
  3. Use a specific example in your answer. This means:
     - Locating where something happened – naming a country
     - Naming a specific item, an event, a process, when something happened
     - Using a statistic or fact
       - $ The cost of something
       - # The amount of something

Question: What is an advantage of fast fashion? Use a specific example

- Lets start with using ONE example from what we have done in class
- Fast Fashion helps respond quickly to trends
- The next few slides will be explaining an example, then we will write an example

- And lets use all your favourite shop…

An example of when SHEIN responded quickly to a trend

- In 2020, House of Sunny made a dress that went viral, known as the Hockney Dress, worn by celebrities such as Kendall Jenner
- SHEIN uses AI to monitor trends online via fashion blogs and social media

An example of when SHEIN responded quickly to a trend

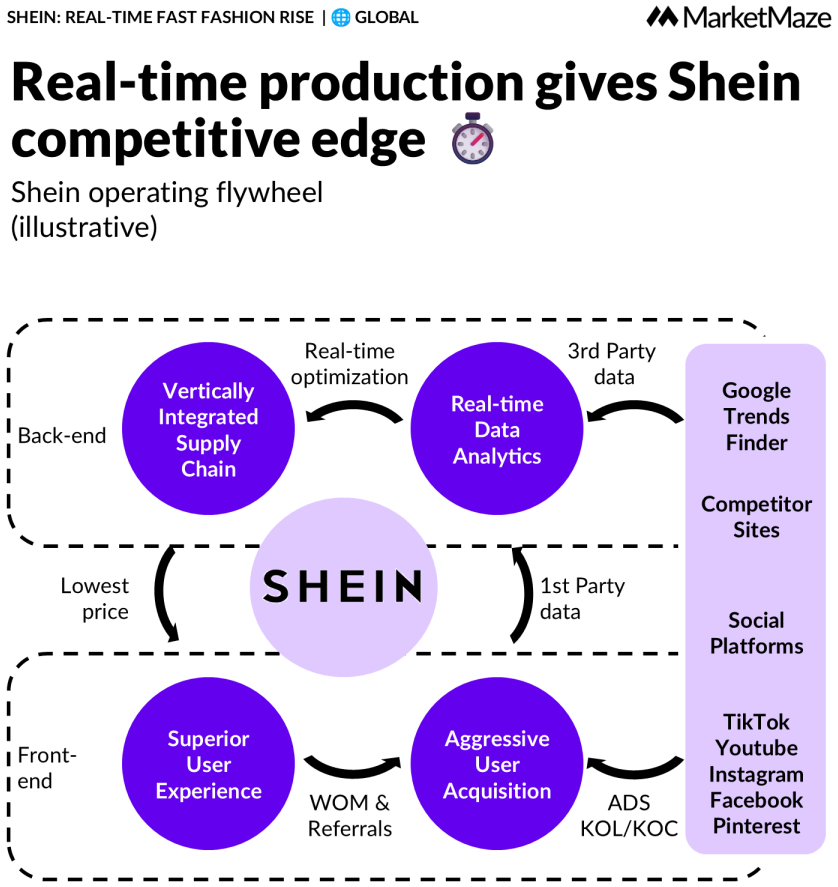

- They then make a quick design copy, before doing a “micro batch” of 100-200 pieces to test
- This is done in Guangzhou Province in China, in places known as “Shein Villages” – massive networks of thousands of small garment workshops and suppliers.

An example of when SHEIN responded quickly to a trend

- If the micro batch sells out quickly, this triggers an automatic response to create thousands of items
- This process meant the Shein copy of the Hockney Dress was made available within a week of the original trending.

Question: What is an advantage of fast fashion? Use a specific example

Make a statement, use words from the question and Geospeak

One sociocultural advantage of fast fashion is its ability to respond quickly to fashion trends.

Question: What is an advantage of fast fashion? Use a specific example

Make a statement, use words from the question and Geospeak

Explain; given some context

One sociocultural advantage of fast fashion is its ability to respond quickly to fashion trends. Historically, there was a lag of several months between the runway and the shopfront. However, companies such as Shein now utilise AI and networks of thousands of garment workshops and suppliers in Guangzhou province in China to respond to trends.

Question: What is an advantage of fast fashion? Use a specific example

Make a statement, use words from the question and Geospeak

Explain; given some context

Give a specific example
- Country
- When did this happen
- Company name
- event

One sociocultural advantage of fast fashion is its ability to respond quickly to fashion trends. Historically, there was a lag of several months between the runway and the shopfront. However, companies such as Shein now utilise AI and networks of thousands of garment workshops and suppliers in Guangzhou province in China to respond to trends. For example, in 2021 the company copied a viral “Hockney dress” and was able to sell thousands within a week of the initial trend.

Question#2 : What is a disadvantage of fast fashion? Give a specific example

- We are going to do this question again
- But this time, YOU will help Mr Morris answer it…

- Lets use SHEIN as an example again…

Info we will use for Question 2 (and beyond)– create a table:

Disadvantage type	Explain	Specific example
Exploitative labor practices	Fast fashion relies on low wage labour in developing countries Factories prioritise speed and low costs over worker rights and safety	Shein workers has been found to have 75 hour workweeks – breaking the legal 44 hours. This happens in the “Shein villages” in Guangzhou, China, which are highly unregulated

Question#2 : What is a disadvantage of fast fashion? Give a specific example

- Help Mr Morris write…. Copy down at the end.
- A sociococultural disadvantage of fast fashion is exploitative labour practices.
- Fast fashion relies on low wage labour in developing countries, as factories prioritise speed and low costs at the expense of workers rights.
- Therefore, an investigation into companies such as Shein have been found to have 75 hour work weeks, breaking the 44 hour legal limit set in China.

Question#3 : What is a disadvantage of fast fashion? Give a specific example

- Pick a different disadvantage of fast fashion
- Research a specific example
- Write a 3-4 sentence answer to this question using your research

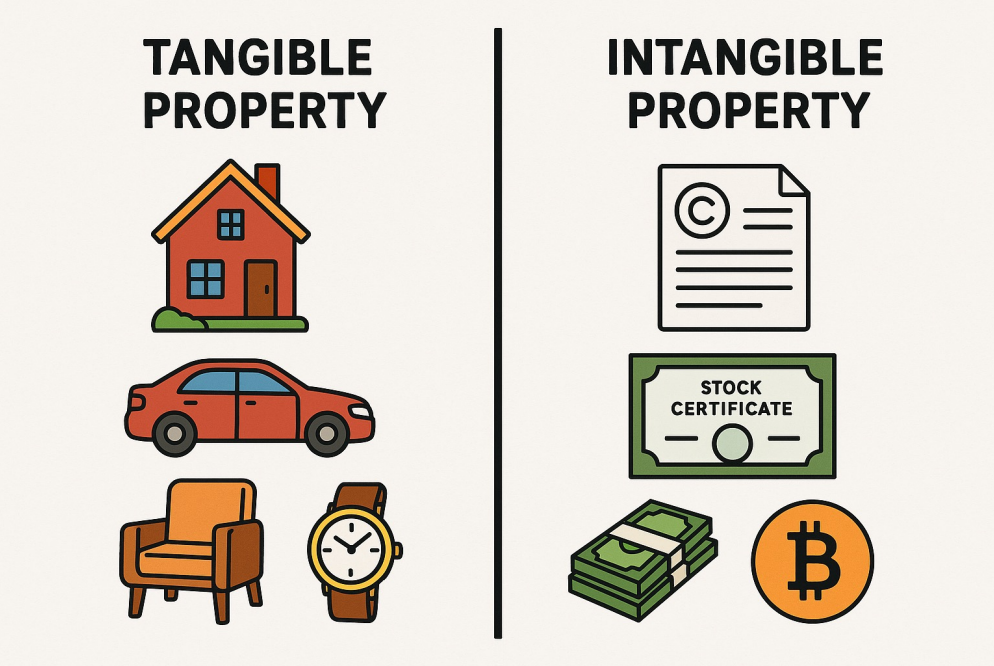

Free Trade

Advantages and disadvantages

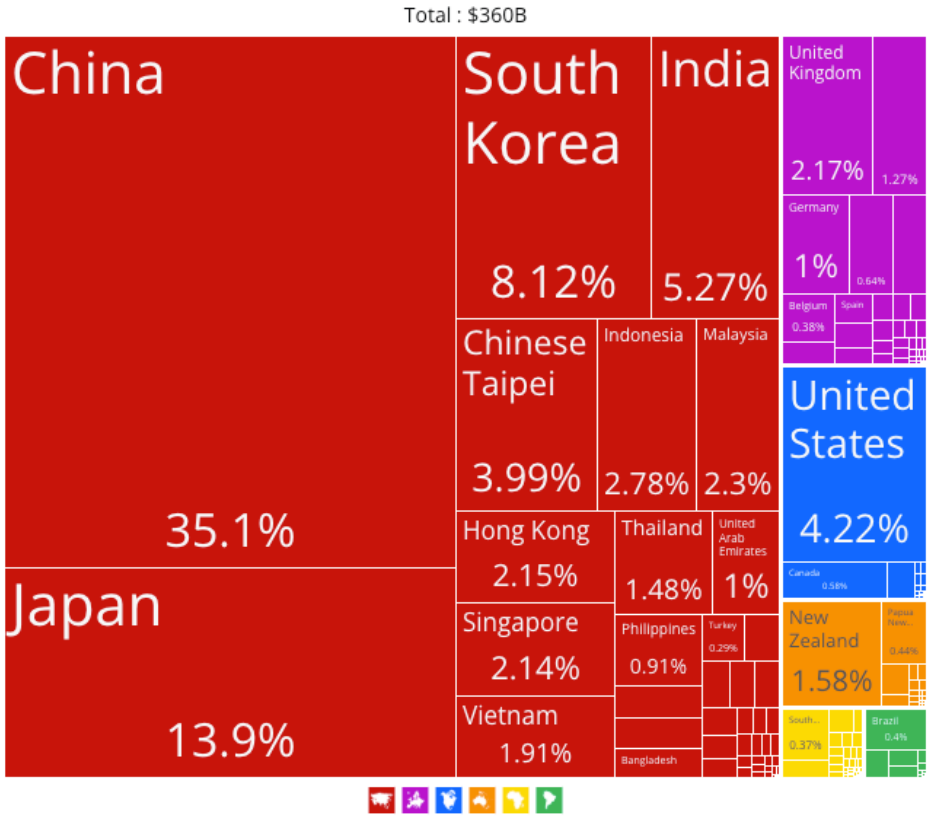

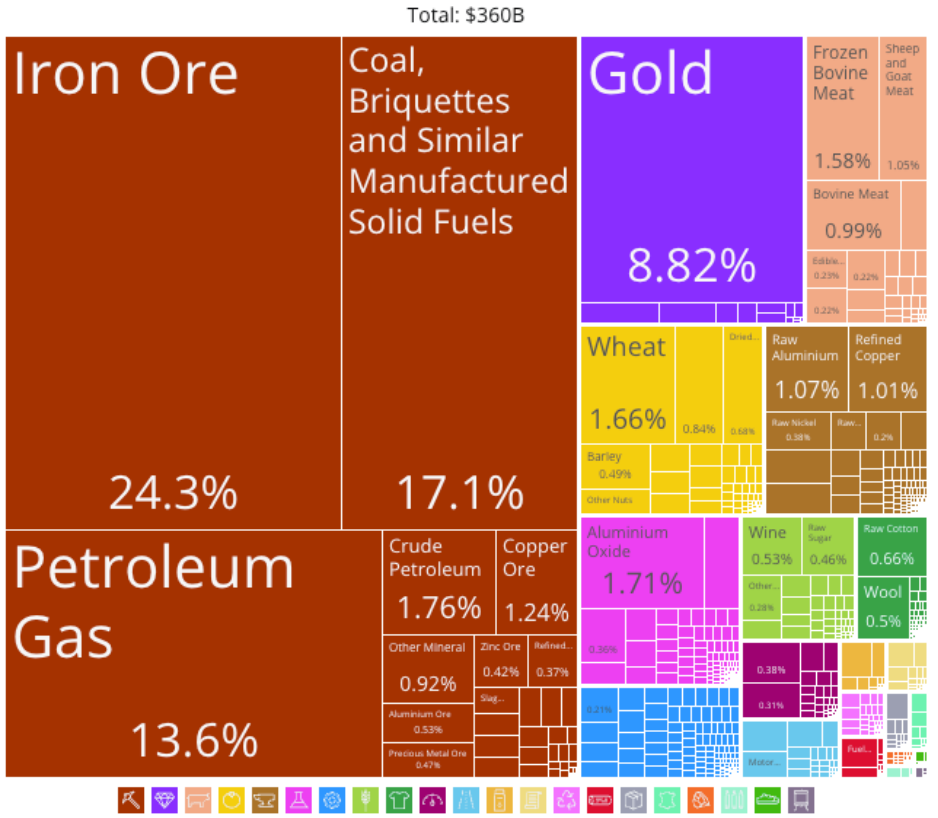

Goods and Services

- Goods are tangible products. (Can touch them) Eg iron ore, coal, LPNG, wool, wheat, sheep, beef etc.
- Services are intangible items that can't be touched but can be seen .Eg Education and Tourism

- Exports( X) are goods and services (G&S) that Australia sells to overseas (O.S) countries.

- What are Australia's 5 biggest Export items?
- What are the 5 biggest countries we export to?

- What is Australia's share of the following items?
  - Wool:
  - Iron Ore:
  - Coal:

- Imports (M) are goods and services that Australia buys from overseas countries.

- What are Australia's 5 biggest Import items?
- What are the 5 biggest countries we import from?

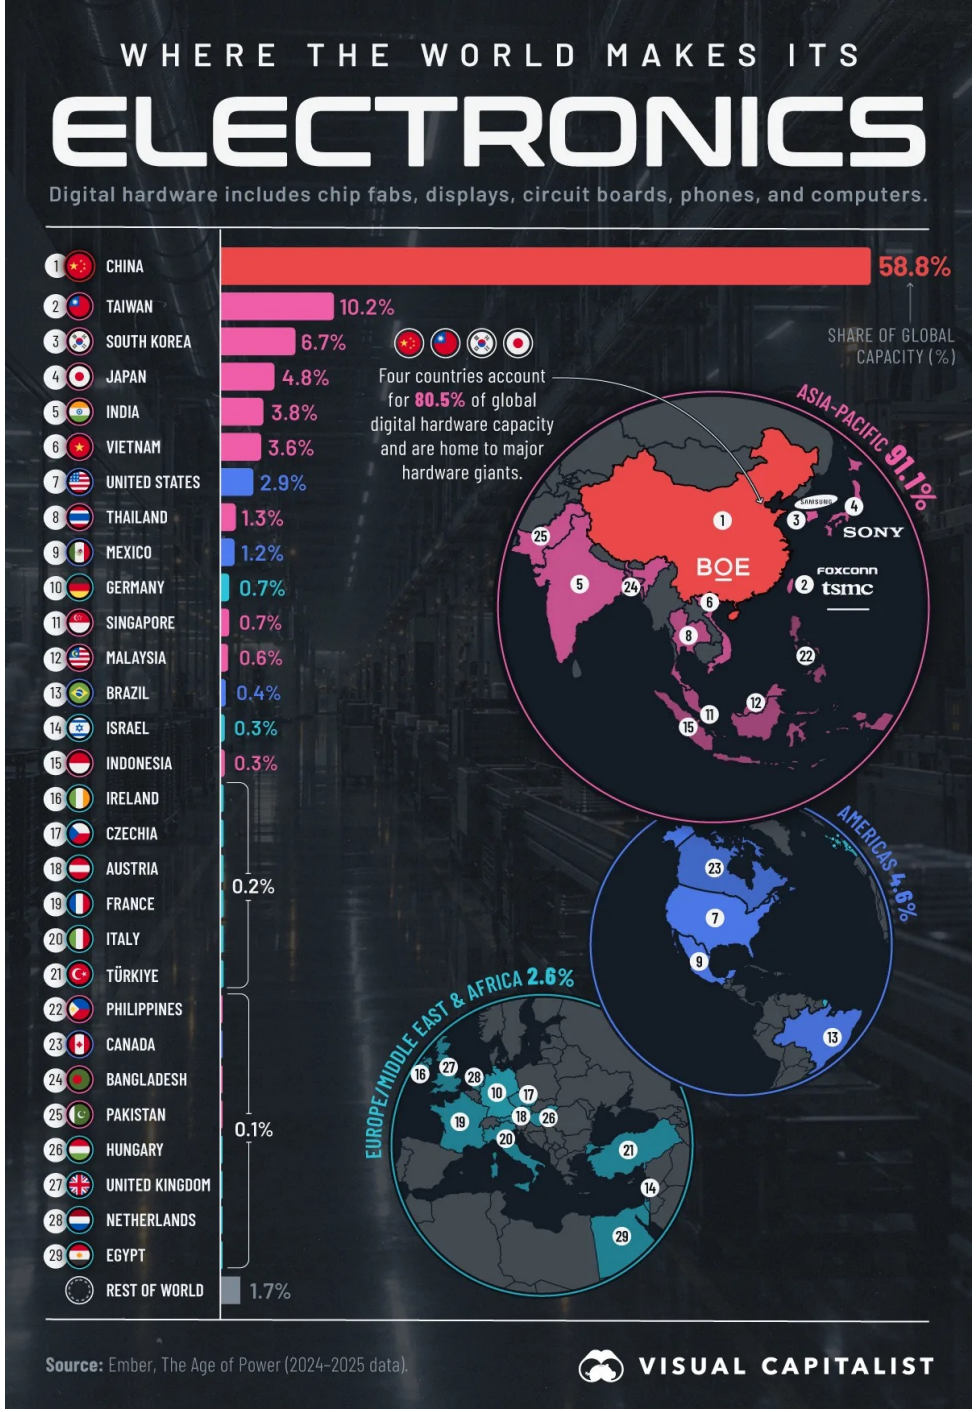

What is Free Trade?

- Definition: Free trade is an economic policy that allows the unrestricted import and export of goods and services between countries without artificial barriers such as tariffs, quotas, or subsidies

Advantages of free trade

- Allows countries to obtain G & S from OS, that they cannot produce themselves or in sufficient quantities to satisfy domestic demand.
- For example, advanced electronics and computers are manufactured in China, Taiwan, South Korea, Japan

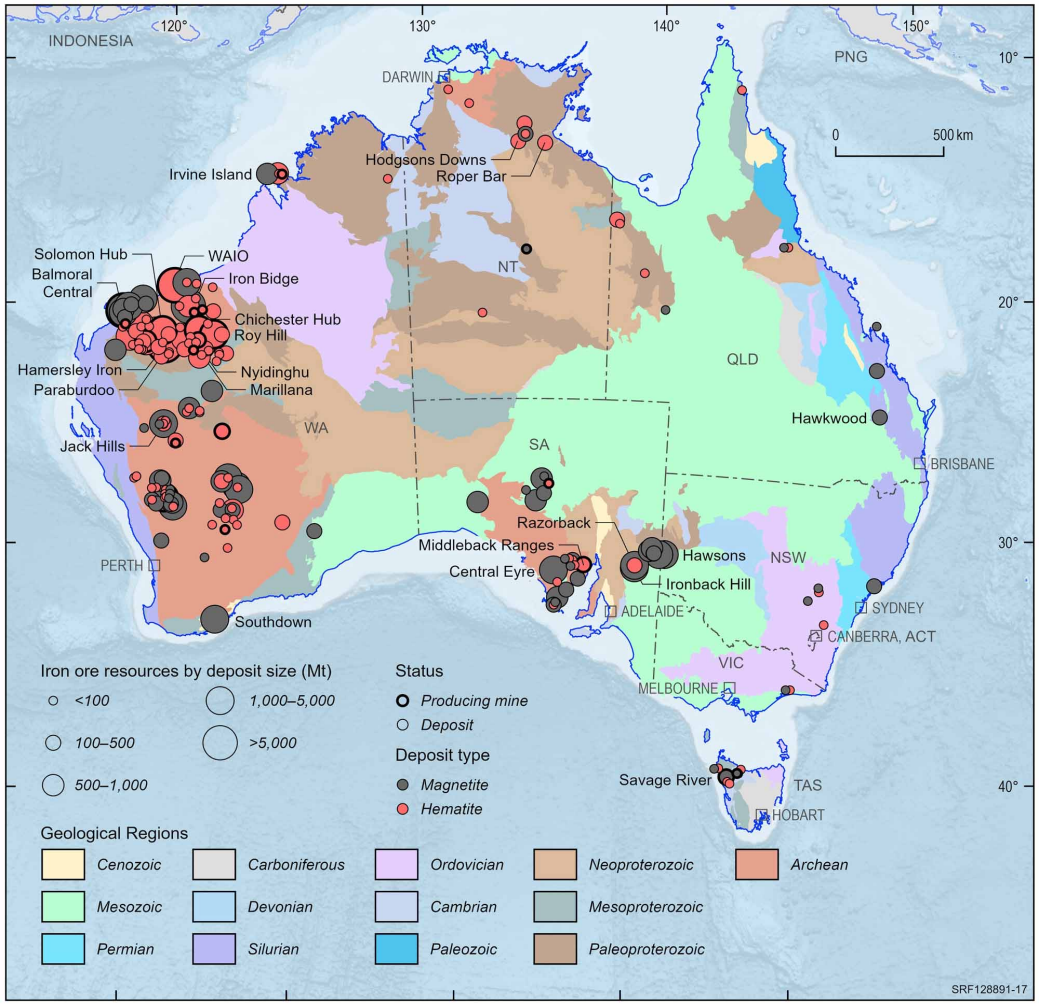

Advantages of free trade

Specialisation & Resource Allocation:

Enables countries to focus on producing goods where they are most efficient, improving global resource use.

Example: Australia specialising in iron ore mining and exporting it to foreign steel makers in China, South Korea and Japan.

Advantages of free trade

Decreasing Production Costs:

High-volume specialisation leads to economies of scale, lowering unit costs and boosting productivity.

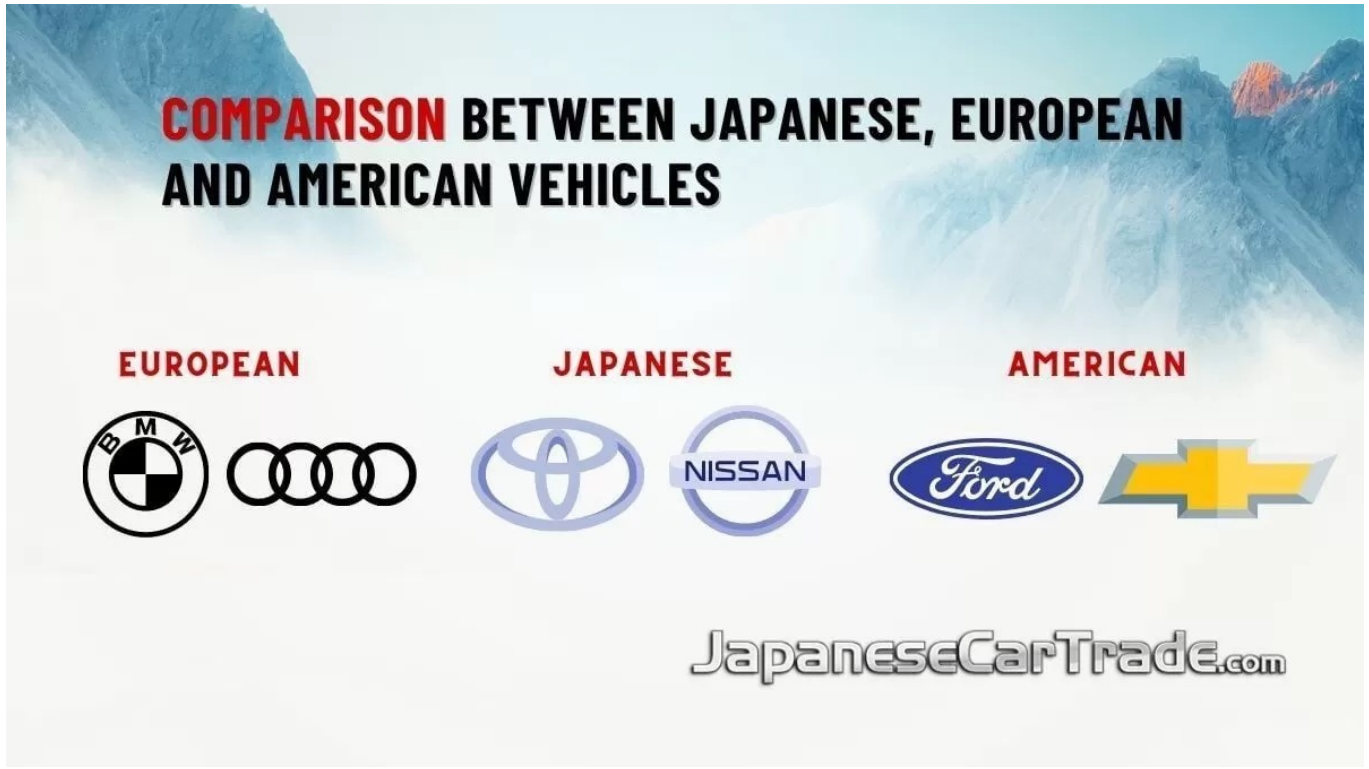

Example: Taiwan mass-producing microchips to lower the individual cost of computer processors.

Advantages of free trade

International Competitiveness:

Removes tariffs and subsidies, forcing domestic businesses to compete directly with foreign companies.

Example: The United States opening its market to foreign cars, which forced American car companies like Ford and General Motors to improve fuel efficiency and quality to compete with Japanese imports like Toyota.

Advantages of free trade

Innovation & Technology Transfer:

Encourages the global spread of new technology, ideas, and "World's Best Practice" methods.

Example: Agricultural farms in Kenya adopting advanced drip-irrigation equipment imported from Israel to conserve water and increase crop yields in dry climates.

Advantages of free trade

Lower Prices & Consumer Choice:

Increases market supply and competition, driving down prices and raising standards of living.

Example: Supermarkets in Canada importing fresh produce like avocados and tomatoes from Mexico year-round, keeping grocery prices lower during freezing Canadian winters.

Advantages of free trade

Market Access for Developing Nations:

Allows developing nations to export crops to advanced economies without high tariff barriers.

Example:

Coffee farmers in Ethiopia exporting raw coffee beans directly to European markets (like Germany and France) without high import tax barriers.

Advantages of free trade

Long-Term Economic Growth:

Expands market reach, raising real incomes, employment, and global living standards over time.

Example: Chinas rapid economic expansion and poverty reduction after joining the World Trade Organisation in 2001

    3. Use the green sheet and our answers from Fast Fashion to help you

2. Bonus:
    1. Australia has specialized in iron ore mining and exporting, and is heavily reliant on the income it generates. Who is our largest buyer, and why might this have advantages and disadvantages?
    2. The government has recently announced the Future Made in Australia policy. What are its main goals, and what issues is it trying to address?

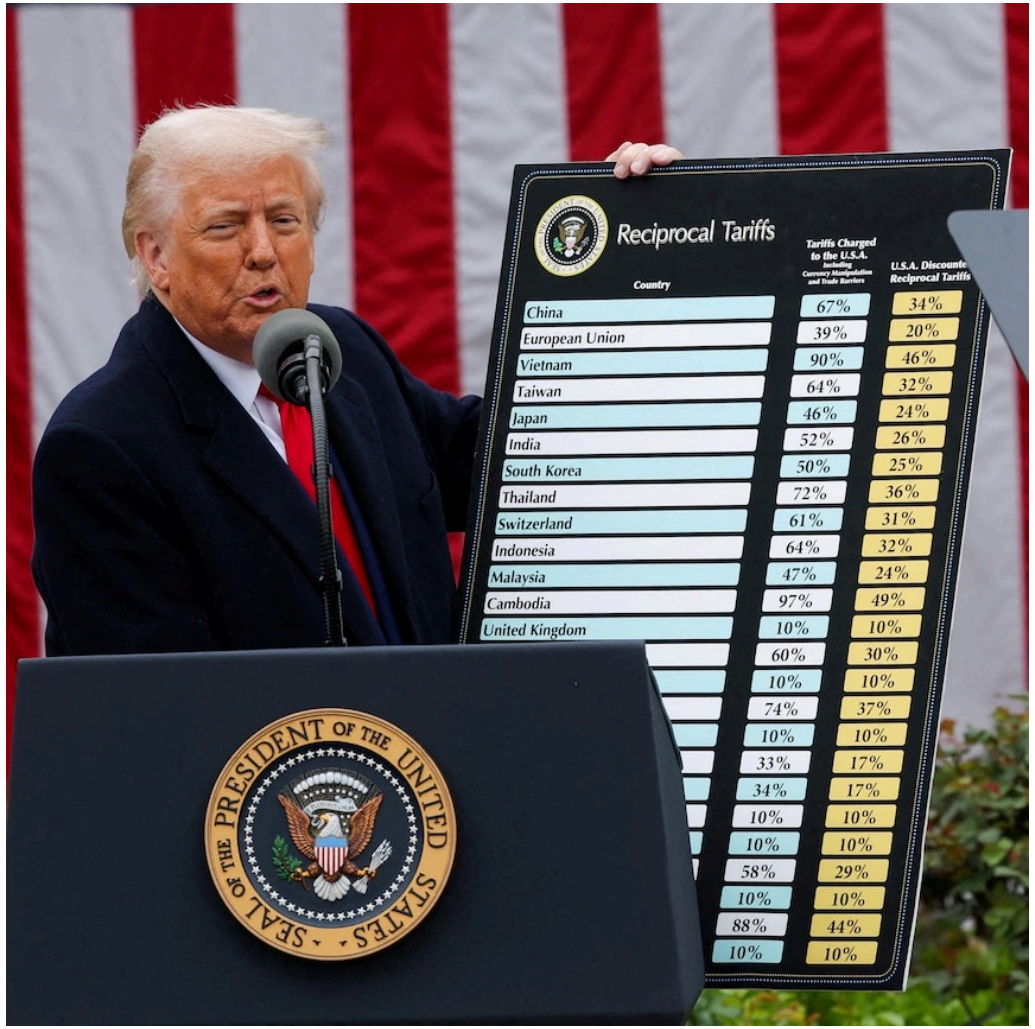

What is Protectionism?

- Definition: Protectionism is an economic policy that restricts international trade to shield domestic producers, businesses, and workers from foreign competition

Trump Tariffs – anti Free Trade

- Trump has put in Tariffs on importing from certain countries
- His policy is meant to encourage people and businesses in the USA to buy homemade goods and services, by making it more expensive to buy from overseas
- This can have many advantages and disadvantages…

Advantages of free trade

- Allows countries to obtain G & S from OS, that they cannot produce themselves or in sufficient quantities to satisfy domestic demand. Eg In Australia transport vehicles , cars (PMV's) etc.
- Holden stopped manufacturing in Australia in 2017, so Australia
